AicE-Bs Background
The annual AicE-Bs conference themes address Environment-Behaviour issues which particularly affect the Asia Pacific communities. Papers from other regions which conform to the theme of the conferences are also most welcome.
The maiden was held in Kuching, Malaysia in 2010. The last was held in Famagusta, N. Cyprus in 2011. After Cairo in 2012, it shall be held in Tasmania, Australia in 2013.

AicE-Bs 2012 Cairo, Egypt

A community is a living organism that has its life cycles with its consecutive periods of ups and downs. Thus, studying the future of a community is an essential process that helps make the best of all possibilities and gaining the most of all potentials.

AicE-Bs 2012 Cairo aimed at helping all growing communities in their efforts to accomplish good future. This can be achieved by shading light over the most important challenges that affect those communities, understanding the in-depth facts and forecasts regarding the socio-cultural and environmental aspects, and determining possible actions that could be taken in preparation for the future. The conference focuses on the socio-cultural interrelationships between humans and the environment at the regional and global levels.

Areas of interest, though not exhaustive include the following:-

- Art and culture
- Built environment
- Community inclusion
- Culture changes and environment.
- Democratic planning
- Ecological Issues
- Environmental awareness
- Healthy communities
- Motivation and basic human needs.
- Natural environment
- Post revolution communities
- Society and Education
